Directions

I found the idea for this activity from Jordon's blog, Life is Better Messy Anyway, She suggested this activity with the book, Last Day Blues by Julie Danneberg,

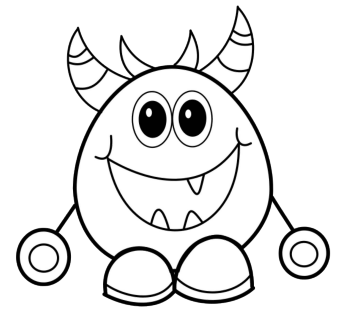

Attached are 2 blank templates and an example of what the template should look like, The first template has 24 boxes, and the 2nd has 28 boxes, The teacher fills in the boxes with a clue about each student in the classroom, You can also add other teachers or staff members in the school, The example shows how I added something about each child in my classroom that was unique,

After you have written the clues give one copy to each student to see if they can guess who each mystery person is,

I had to save this activity as a PDF file so the graphics could be protected, I'm sorry you will not be able to edit the grids,
